County funds forecasting service

Weather radio is for real

By DEAN JONES

A National Weather Radio Service for the Lake Okeechobee and Glades area became all but reality Tuesday when the Palm Beach County Commission agreed to pay for the purchase of the radio transmitter, its installation in the Clewiston area and the first year's operational costs.

The commissions approval of a motion by District Five Commissioner Bill Bailey followed earlier approval of the radio slave station by the National Weather Service.

at the request of Congressman Dan Mica.

According to a computer print-out, the station should provide weather forecasts to an area as far north as Fort Bassinger, east to beyond 20 Mile Bend, south to Alligator Alley and west to La Belle.

David Goodlett, an aide to Commissioner Bailey, pointed out those boundaries reflect the fringe area of transmission by the station but good reception is expected anywhere in the Lake and Glades farming areas.

Within that area, reception should be possible with a radio cube, priced as low as $17.95. Anyone equipped with the cube would be able to receive forecasts that would be updated no less than every 12 hours and with updates on severe weather at any time.

The service is becoming a reality as the result of a joint effort begun in January, when officials from the National Weather Service offices in Washington, Fort Worth, Tex., Miami and West Palm Beach toured the area for two days.

After the tour, the officials met with representatives of Congressman Mica, Commissioner Bailey, the Western Palm Beach County Farm Bureau, South Bay Growers and the Sugar Cane Growers Cooperative of Florida, Inc.

The consensus of those in that January meeting was that the Weather Service would do what was necessary to approve the station, that it would be financed jointly by the county and other interests and that the forecasts would originate from the National Weather Service at Palm Beach International Airport.

Goodlett said Bailey made his motion for the entire $28,500 needed to provide service for the first year because the equipment delivery time is 26 weeks and if the county were to wait for aid or the new budget to be adopted Oct. 1, the service may not be provided this year.

George Wedgworth, who attended the January meeting and who was one of the local parties to get Congressman Mica interested, said Wednesday morning that the equipment would be owned and maintained by Civil Defense in Palm Beach County and that South Bay Growers has agreed to provide emergency backup power equipment.

The station will be installed in Hookers Point, just east of Clewiston and the antenna will be placed atop a 500 foot tower owned by the South Florida Water Management District.

The station will transmit on a frequency of 162.40 megahertz with a power of 300 watts. The frequency is the same now being used by similar service in West

Local Cubans march to support 10,000

BELLE GLADE—Local Cubans closed their businesses at noon Monday to gather donations in support of 10,000 of their countrymen at the Peruvian embassy in Havana, then marched to city hall in a drenching rain to pack city commission chambers and elicit further support from the commission.

Gilberto Alvarez said Tuesday the merchants were able to gather more than $3,000 in cash donations which will go to the relief of the Cubans who are attempting to get out of Cuba following a weekend statement by Fidel Castro.

Castro said, after a guard was killed at the Peruvian embassy over the weekend, that the Cuban government would grant exit visas to all Cubans who were granted entrance visas by Peru. An estimated 10,000 Cubans were estimated by news stories to be in the embassy grounds trying to take advantage of the release.

Alvarez said the local Cuban community decided spontaneously to close their businesses to gather donations for the relief of the Cubans in the embassy and publicly demonstrate their support with a parade from Garcia's American Service Station on North Main Street to city hall, present a petition to the city commission, then go to St. Philip Benizi Catholic Church for a prayer service.

Reading the petition to the commissioners, Fernando Llorens told them, "In the name of the Cuban residents of Belle Glade, we request your sympathetic cooperation for the Cubans who are

City charter to be revised?

BELLE GLADE—City voters may have the opportunity of deciding in September whether they want an undetermined number of changes to be made in the city charter if plans discussed in a workshop Monday night pan out.

Dr. Richard Ormon told city commissioners he thought when he'd been commissioned to study the charter and ordinances in October, he thought the major changes would have to be made in the ordinances, with only minor housekeeping changes to be made in the charter.

"I found the ordinances would need some work," he said, "but they're inherently in order. The charter, on the other hand, needs to be turned inside out."

Dr. Ormon suggested the charter and ordinances revisions be discussed by the commissioners in a workshop and bring them before the public in a referendum during the city's elections in September.

He said he had come up with a list of 39 suggested changes, falling into three categories; sections which are outdated or inconsistent with present state law, sections which are inconsistent with current operations in the city and sections which cover issues which might reflect a change of policy on the part of the city government.

Ormon said the changes were discussed with him during individual meetings with all the city commissioners and other city officials ranging from City Manager Robert Sanders through the city clerk, the city attorney and department heads.

He gave the commissioners 14 changes which he said were representative of the whole list of 39. The 14 changes included changing the date of the city election, changing the term of commissioners from two to three years, conform voter registration provisions with state law, removing references to municipal courts and the tax assessor and modifying the oath of office for commissioners to require provisions promising to reside in the commissioner's borough during the entire term of office.

The commission decided to meet in a workshop on April 29 to discuss the full list of 39 suggested changes.

There was some discussion about

Black Gold games start this weekend

BELLE GLADE—The Second Annual Black Gold Jubilee will get underway this weekend with a softball tournament scheduled to last from Friday through Sunday, a tennis tournament running through Saturday and Sunday and a golf tournament set for Sunday.

The three tournaments will be played this weekend to keep next weekend free for a host of other activities slated to take place Saturday and Sunday, April 19-20.

The softball tournament is being sponsored by the Kiwanis Club of the Glades and is being played on two ball diamonds in two divisions. The men will be playing at Lake Shore Recreation Park and the two women will be playing Saturday and Sunday at Jaycee Field.

The tennis tournament will be played on Saturday and Sunday at Lyons Park and the golf tournament will begin with a shotgun start at 1 p.m. at the Belle Glade Golf Course.

With last minute planning being wrapped up, members of the Jubilee Committee decided last week one of the few remaining details was to make sure as many people in Belle Glade as possible are aware of what will be offered during the weekend.

The committee members decided to reproduce a large number of the schedules of events and have them distributed to area banks, supermarkets, convenience stores and at the Belle Glade city hall and

BACK TALK

We seem to have heard a lot more this year about people not getting their census forms and less about people resenting the kinds of questions that are asked. BACK TALK's question this week was, "Do you object to the kinds of questions that are asked on the census forms?"

J.B. Pate, Belle Glade -- Not that I know. I haven't gotten around to study it and fill it out.

Wallace Lamar, Belle Glade -- I've been looking for the census papers. I never got them.

Doris Dean, Clewiston -- Not really. I don't see anything wrong with them.

Nadine Strong, Belle Glade -- I didn't even receive one this year.

Anniebelle Thomas, Belle Glade -- No, I sure don't. And yes, I got the long one.

Cuba, si! Castro, no!

If anyone in America was still living under the illusion about the popularity of socialist governments they have to live under, this past weekend's events in Cuba should go a long way toward some eye-opening.

All it took was for Castro's Communist government to do was to say exit visas would be issued if the Peruvian government would provide entrance visas and there were 10,000 Cubans turning the Peruvian embassy into their own version of a sardine can.

Cubans here in Belle Glade are to be commended for their spontaneous show of support and the hard cash and contributions to back up that support.

It's a shame more Anglo-Americans couldn't have seen for themselves the 150-or-so Cubans involved in a parade down a rainy Main Street and their orderly requests for support from the city commissioners but even if more Anglos had been on hand, they wouldn't have been able to make it into the commission chambers.

Popular government? With many more weekends like this one, Castro's government won't have anyone left to govern.

The only shame of the matter is that it's the people who have to leave these totalitarian governments. Perhaps it should be the Castros, the Duvaliers and the Vietnamese and Cambodian "leaders" who should be encouraged to become boat people.

What cens us?

The prediction several weeks ago by a U.S. Census Bureau official that the bureau would count 90 per cent of the population through the mail passed this week from the ridiculous to the sublime.

It reached the ridiculous last week when we discovered that four of six employees here at the Herald-Observer office hadn't received our census forms, which were to have been mailed to everyone in the United States based on all available mailing lists.

The prediction passed into the regions of the sublime this week, however, when we learned that we weren't alone. Belle Glade Postmaster Don Siver said he hadn't received his form either.

Why we should boycott the Olympics

Dear Editor: The United States Government has made an unalterable decision that no U.S. team will participate in the summer Olympic Games in Moscow. President Carter and members of his Administration, as well as the large majority of Members of Congress who voted in favor of an Olympic boycott, understand the extreme disappointment this will cause our best young athletes, all of whom have undergone long, hard-even painful-years of training to prepare for the Olympics. However, this action was necessary in order to do what is best for our country and best for world peace. A large majority of the American people agree that it would not be in the national interest to send a United States team to the Soviet Union.

The boycott was one of several actions taken by the United States following the Soviet Union's brutal invasion of Afghanistan, a small, formerly non-aligned state on the USSR's southern border. The United States and other free-world nations were appalled by this massive Soviet invasion, by the execution of the head of state, by the installation of a puppet government, by the brutal suppression of the country's Muslim nationalists. This sequence of events differed from previous examples of Soviet aggression in Poland, in Hungary, in Czechoslovakia. For the first time, Soviet troops invaded a country outside the Soviet sphere. This poses a direct threat to the security of nations around Afghanistan, especially Pakistan and Iran. If unanswered, it could have a profound effect on stability in the Middle East. It would encourage greater Soviet self-assertion elsewhere. It is a direct threat to the national security of the United States.

Critics have claimed that the boycott is merely a symbolic gesture and that it will have no meaningful impact on the Soviet. This is incorrect. Of the various actions taken thus far-the grain embargo, the ban on technology transfer, the reductions in access to fishing areas and in scientific/cultural exchanges-the Olympic boycott will have the most immediate and visible effect on the Soviet Union.

The boycott will have an important political impact on the Soviet Union. The USSR is the first Communist country to host the Games. The head of the Moscow Olympic Organizing Committee is a high Soviet official. For the USSR, international sports competition is an aspect of government policy and a means to advance foreign policy goals. The Soviets view the Olympic as a political struggle between "progressive" and "reactionary" forces, and they are determined to use the Games to gain international prestige and respectability. According to a passage from the "1979 Handbook for Party Activists": "The decision to give the honored right to hold the Olympic Games in the capital of the world's first socialist state has become a convincing testimony to the general recognition of the historical importance and the correctness of the foreign political course of our country, of the enormous services of the Soviet Union in the struggle for peace, its contribution to the international Olympic movement, and to the development of physical culture and sports."

The same handbook also stresses the expenditure of tens of millions of rubles on the Games, the influx of foreign tourists (with their foreign exchange), and the estimate that more than one and one-half billion people in 100 countries will view the Games. Note is also taken of the great athletic success of Soviet and other "socialist" nations in post-war Olympic Games. Clearly, the Olympic Games are to be used as a showcase for the Soviet Union and the Soviet system.

The absence of U.S. participants in Moscow could not be ignored either by Soviet citizens or by the rest of the world. The Soviets know that American athletes provide the major competition in track and field, swimming, and basketball. Soviet victories over less-skilled competitors would be hollow. More important, it would show the Soviet people and the rest of the world the extent of United States disapproval of Soviet aggression in Afghanistan and clearly demonstrate that the United States will not let our athletes be employed as pawns for Soviet propaganda. The point will be made that a nation cannot serve as host for the Olympic Games, a celebration of peace, while in the process of invading and subjugating an independent nation. It will be a serious blow to the prestige of the Soviet regime, part of the heavy and lasting price they must pay for aggression.

We believe that it is absolutely essential that American athletes honor their nation's boycott. We recognize that they will forego an opportunity they very much want and deserve. However, if they participate, the Soviets would tell their people that notwithstanding the world-wide disapproval of the Afghanistan invasion expressed by governments, the peoples of the world were on their side. If we permit sport to go forward as usual, after we have said there will be no "business as usual," we would be sending out a contradictory signal that calls into question the firmness of our resolve. The seriousness with which the United States views the Soviet action and its threat to world peace must be brought home to the Soviet leadership and to the Soviet people. It would be an ineffective gesture to do so as some have suggested-make "statements" in Moscow criticizing Soviet aggression by refusing to participate in opening and closing ceremonies or refusing to accept medals on the Olympic platform. Not only do these "punishments" not match the crime, Soviet officials could easily conceal them from the Soviet public since they have complete control of the Soviet mass media. But they cannot conceal the complete absence of a U.S. team.

United States non-participation will provide the example around which the rest of the free world will rally. Many nations outside the Soviet bloc will respond to our leadership by not sending their teams to Moscow. But whether or not other nations join us, the United States must take the lead. As a matter of national conscience, as a demonstration of free-world leadership, as well as to safeguard our national security and liberty, we must go first without looking back to see who follows. Leadership inspires followers. No United States Olympic team should take part in the Moscow Games.

Sincerely,
/s/Hodding Carter III

CRACKER CRUMBS

BY DEAN JONES

Can't think of a finer bunch of fellas to be chosen as winners as the bunch of Belle Glade Lions who paddled their floating commode across the finish line in last year's Black Gold Jubilee raft race.

I doubt many of the Lions are aware of it yet but their feat is going to put them in the pages of a new book coming out this December called The Book of Winners.

There's gonna be a picture of them coming across the finish line somewhere on the pages of the new book...probably somewhere around the same page as the winner of the chicken flying contest or the winner of the worm races.

I know their picture is at least planned to grace the pages of winners because I supplied the picture I took last year to Bob Sanders, who mailed it off, and then received a call from one Judith Norback who wanted to get permission to use it.

When I asked Ms. Norback just what The Book of Winners consists of, she told me it was a collection of all kinds of contests, and their winners, being held across the United States.

There was the championship chicken flying contest, for instance that immediately brought to mind the WKRP. In Cincinnati parking lot. As it turned out, of course, the turkeys put on the promo. They didn't jump out of a helicopter.

Apparently nobody ever told 'em Nesbitt, or whatever his name is, that domestic turkeys have a glide path similar to that of a brickbat...and that's while they're flapping their wings at full strength.

Mus't've been a shattering experience to have a 28-pound buttball plunge through your windshield in a supermarket parking lot. As it turned out, of course, the turkeys put on the promo. They didn't jump out of a helicopter.

Some of the other goodies mentioned by Ms. Norback were the worm races, the frog jumping contest and the cricket contest. I don't know and she failed to mention whether the object of the cricket contest was to see which cricket could jump the highest, it from point A to point B in the shortest time or could sing the loudest by swinging his legs around.

She also said she was looking for other ideas for The Book of Winners and I asked her if she'd heard about the Annual San Antonio Rattlesnake Festival and International Gopher Races. I didn't think to mention that San Antonio, Fla., not Texas. Hope she doesn't get too mad. Otherwise she may not use the Lions Club picture.

The only other two types of contests where she might get some off-the-wall winners for her book came from the days of iron men and wild winds, namely the seabeiscuit races.

She got all kinds of excited at the seabeiscuit races, although I tried to tell her she probably wouldn't find anything of the sort today, namely because ships just don't stay out to sea today as long as they used to and in any event, what with the advent of reefers (that's a walk-in cooler, not a marijuana joint), sailors don't eat hardtack anymore.

The way the races worked, of course, was the sailors would wait until they'd been at sea for a few months and were in the warmer climes before snatching a couple of seabeiscuits from the galley, putting them in the middle of a chalked circle on the hot deck, to see which one would move out of the circle first.

Course it wasn't the biscuits themselves that were doing the crowded into the grounds of the Peruvian embassy in Havana in their desperate attempt to leave the island.

"This group of people," Llorens read, "are now suffering danger and hardship in their attempt to reach a free country. We must give them all possible help in the tradition of true American hospitality which has been displayed in the past so often and so generously. Thank you, neighbors, for all you can do to help."

Llorens told the commissioners the rain kept even more Cubans from attending the meeting in commission chambers. More than 150, bearing the flags of the United States and Cuba as well as signs making their feelings known, moved into the chambers in a standing-room-only crowd to voice their support for the 10,000 and seek the support of the commission.

Between two talks given to the crowd in Spanish, Jesus Garcia said he thinks it is now time the people of the United States realize the approach of Communism is very close.

Garcia said he appreciates this country but he felt the Americans should know the Cuban people will no longer accept another Hungry or Czechoslovakia, to shouts from the crowd of "Cuba, si! Rusco, no!"

Llorens, reading the petition, told the commissioners, "We all know how you Americans hold human dignity and human rights. That's why we're here."

Mayor Ralph Kirk told the crowd, "We'll help you any way we can because we believe your cause is just and good."

"I'm very proud of our Cuban citizens in Belle Glade," Commissioner Tom Altman said. "I think the concern you show for your fellow Cubans and for people throughout the world is extraordinary."

At Altman's motion, the commission voted unanimously to forward a telegram to President Carter, the congressional delegation and the Department of State to let them know the position of the Belle Glade Cuban community, endorsing their petition and seeking national support.

Alvarez said Tuesday morning the donations collected will be forwarded through channels to be used for the relief of the 10,000 Cubans in the Peruvian embassy grounds.

"It all depends on Castro," he said. "If he'll let aid go through, we'll send it directly through to the Peruvian embassy. If not, we'll put it in a reserve fund to help them when they're allowed to leave Cuba. I understand they're now thinking about putting them in tent cities in Peru when they get there."

He said donations are still being sought and may be made to Lico Cubano Jose Marti, a Belle Glade Cuban society, at Gilbert's Jewelry, Garcia's American Service Station on North Main, the Latin Grocery or Lake Supermarket.

Events will begin April 19 when runners participating in the One Half Marathon start their 13 mile run on South Main Street immediately across from McDonald Park and run from there down Main Street and SR827A for 6 1/2 miles before turning around for the return run.

Becky Wedgworth told the committee members last week she had 24 booths registered for the arts and crafts show and another seven food booths set up in McDonald Park. Many of the Arts and Crafts booths will be open at 9 a.m.

The arts and crafts booths will include display and sale points for china, pewter, fashion jewelry, a country store, Seminole crafts, dolls and wooden toys, ceramics, T-shirts, paintings, wooden toys, needlework, clown faces which will be painted on children, copper enameling and tole painting.

The food booths will offer a variety of items from All-American hot dogs, hamburgers, Cokes and salad to Syrian food, including southern Soul food, tacos and chili and tea.

The Black Gold Jubilee Parade will begin at 10:30 a.m. Saturday at Glades Central High School, marching east on North Canal Street, south on Main and west on Southwest Avenue E to Glades Plaza, where it will disband.

whether the changes should be substantive and sweeping or kept basically to housekeeping changes.

Commissioner Tom Altman said he wants to see the commission consider sweeping changes if it considers making any changes at all, although not necessarily making the changes suggested.

City Attorney John Baker commented he felt that any time a charter or constitution is amended, it destroys some part of the original law to the detriment of the people, citing the amendment to the U.S. Constitution which required the election of U.S. senators by the residents of a state rather than by the state legislature.

Altman and Commissioner Dorothy Walker said they felt that was a subjective evaluation. Later, Baker and Dr. Ormon agreed they felt the charter, which is to the city what the Constitution is to the nation, should be drawn up to leave the widest of latitudes.

An example offered was that the legal description of the city's boundaries shouldn't be included in the charter at all, as they now are, but included in the ordinances and referred to in the charter. The reason is that the legal description changes with every annexation.

Commissioner Altman said he would like to see the charter adopt home rule so some types of amendments could be made without going to the voters for a referendum.

Regarding ordinances, Ormon said there were three types of changes he recommended, including sections which are outdated or unenforceable, sections which are internally inconsistent or inconsistent with the charter or state laws or sections which represent the need for various new directions in politics.

He suggested the ordinances be reviewed by a select committee of city staff in day-long, weekly sessions and finalized after the new charter passes or fails.

There will be a number of events continuing throughout the afternoon in McDonald Park, including live entertainment for young and old, a trash bash for teenagers who will be collecting trash this weekend in the city's first Trashathon and movies and puppet shows for the youngsters in the city library.

The day will end Saturday when an Almost Anything Goes is kicked off at 6 p.m. in Glades Central football stadium.

Almost Anything Goes is based on the television program and features competitions between six teams of adults, equally divided between four men and four women each, and three teams of teenagers.

Sunday, April 20, the events will resume at 3 p.m. at the city marina, where the highlights will be the popular raft races in men's, mixed and women's competition of racing manually powered rafts through a course on the Rim Canal, and an all-new water ski show.

The water ski show, according to chairman Brett McCormick, has spun off a new area club called Sunshine Water Sports, Limited. The 26 charter members of the club are using tips picked up by trips to Cypress Gardens and other professional water ski shows.

McCormick said the members are working on at least 14 routines, meaning the event will definitely consist of more than the three or four water skiers that have competed with each other the past two years.

Throughout the day, spectators will have a chance to ease their hunger at the barbeque being sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce, with half-chicken dinners going for $3.50 each.

The Second Annual Jubilee will end with a fireworks display shortly after dark at the Marina.

moving. It was the weevils inside the biscuits that didn't like the hot deck and were attempting to get off it.

I think the message is that things got pretty boring on those old wooden sailing ships.

Things got so boring, in fact, the sailors invented a contest in which they'd throw a rat into a deep coil of rope with a sailor whose hands were tied behind his back. The object was to take wagers on how long it would take for the sailor to kill the rat... either by stomping it with his bare feet or biting it to death. The kicker was that the rat didn't take kindly to being stomped or bitten and was more than apt to be doing a little biting of its own.

Seems to me as though the only thing Ms. Norback has to do to find whole bunches of interesting contests and winners is to go to where men have a lot of time on their hands.

Either that or find Bobby Bare and get his version.

Mitch Strickland is named to West Point

WASHINGTON, D.C.—U.S. Sen. Richard Stone announced this week the appointment of Stephen Mitchell Strickland to the U.S. Military Academy at West Point, New York.

Mitchell, 17, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert V. Turner of Belle Glade. A senior at Glades Day School he is an active member of the Student Council, the Science Club and the Volunteers, Red Cross Volunteers and has participated in track and football.

"Acceptance into the academy is a rigorous and highly competitive process," Stone said. "These students are to be congratulated on their appointment. I am glad that the tradition of excellence in these service academies is being continued."

Mitchell is one of fifty high school seniors nominated by Stone for the 1980-81 school year. The appointment to the academy is the equivalent of a four-year scholarship worth almost $100,000.

This year over 860 high school seniors from around the state applied for an interview with the nominating board appointed by Stone. The nominations then went to the academy officials who appropriately ranked them and appointed a select few. Last year, 39 of Stone's 50 nominees received appointments.

Four service academies — the Military Academy, the Naval Academy, the Air Force Academy and the Merchant Marine Academy offer appointments.

Students interested in qualifying for a service academy next year are urged to contact Stone's District Representative, Sgt. Peter Butler, at his office 2639 North Monroe, Suite 200-B, Tallahassee, Florida 32303.

Belle Glade explores Expanded 911 options

BELLE GLADE—City Commissioners will be discussing the possibility of buying some or all options to an emergency 911 telephone system which is scheduled for installation in late 1981.

The commissioners were told in a workshop that the 911 telephone number for emergency calls would be installed and maintained by the county, along with three 911 lines, as of December 1981.

What was referred to as the Expanded 911 system, according to Frank Menoni of Southern Bell Telephone Co., will be installed at the Police Department, will only receive emergency calls from within the city, an advantage over the original version of the 911 system.

The basic system, which will be paid for by the county, will include the three lines, an alternate routing system to reach other emergency numbers such as the Fire Department or the ambulance service, and several other features.

Menoni said what he needed from the commissioners was a decision on whether they want to spend up to $20,000 for installation and $1,116 monthly bills for up to four options, which would include a display of the telephone number from which the call was made, one-button transfer, a read-out display of the address and name of the calling party and a printout of all 911 calls.

The read-out displays, he said, could prevent a tragedy if, for instance, someone was only able to dial the number without being able to say anything.

He gave, as an example, an incident which was reported on national television two weeks ago in which a woman called the police station when a man broke into her home to kill her and her children. He noted the woman didn't have a chance to tell the police dispatcher her name or address and the dispatcher could only listen helplessly as the murders took place.

Menoni said that if the dispatcher had been equipped with the 911 optional services, he would have had an automatic readout on the woman's address and could immediately have dispatched help.

Commissioners Tom Altman and Dorothy Walker agreed they were in favor of getting the options, after Police Inspector Michael Miller recommended their purchase, if the city can work out the details and finances.

Before the Monday meeting, City Attorney John Baker is supposed to go through Southern Bell's contract and make a report on that.

In other action, the commission: —Decided to hold a special workshop on April 15 to discuss a bond issue on water and sewer improvements.

—Scrapped, at least for the moment, consideration of writing an ordinance for the control of flea markets.

—Agreed, after a presentation by Commissioner Dorothy Walker, to endorse in a resolution Governor Bob Graham's legislative program on energy, that Mayor Ralph Kirk should proclaim May 3 as Sun Day in Belle Glade, and encourage the use of solar energy by Belle Glade residents where and when possible and that Miss Walker and City Manager Robert R. Sanders work together to see what the city could do to encourage energy conservation here, by example or ordinance.

—Discussed but made no decision on alternative plans as to whether the city should build an elevated one million gallon water tank on

Duda Road as part of its water system expansion, a one million gallon ground storage tank there or a one million gallon ground storage tank at the water treatment plant.

—Directed City Manager Sanders to follow up on a suggested application concerning wasteload allocations which Briley, Wild and Associates engineers suggested could eliminate the need either effluent spreading or deep well injection as a means of disposing of effluent from the city's sewage treatment plant. Briley, Wild said the chances for getting the new plan approved would be slim but might be worth following up.

At the Clewiston Burger King Invitational Track Meet Thursday, April 3, there were the Glades Central Lady Raiders and then there was the rest of the world. Glades Central scored 110 points to dethrone champion Clewiston. Fort Myers was runner-up in the meet with 50 points. Clewiston had 28.

Mitch Strickland is named to West Point

WASHINGTON, D.C.—U.S. Sen. Richard Stone announced this week the appointment of Stephen Mitchell Strickland to the U.S. Military Academy at West Point, New York.

Mitchell, 17, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert V. Turner of Belle Glade. A senior at Glades Day School he is an active member of the Student Council, the Science Club and the Volunteers, Red Cross Volunteers and has participated in track and football.

"Acceptance into the academy is a rigorous and highly competitive process," Stone said. "These students are to be congratulated on their appointment. I am glad that the tradition of excellence in these service academies is being continued."

Mitchell is one of fifty high school seniors nominated by Stone for the 1980-81 school year. The appointment to the academy is the equivalent of a four-year scholarship worth almost $100,000.

This year over 800 high school seniors from around the state applied for an interview with the nominating board appointed by Stone. The nominations then went to the academy officials who appropriately ranked them and appointed a select few. Last year, 39 of Stone's 50 nominees received appointments.

Four service academies — the Military Academy, the Naval Academy, the Air Force Academy and the Merchant Marine Academy offer appointments.

Students interested in qualifying for a service academy next year are urged to contact Stone's District Representative, Sgt. Peter Butler, at his office 2639 North Monroe, Suite 200-B, Tallahassee, Florida 32303.

Belle Glade explores Expanded 911 options

BELLE GLADE—City Commissioners will be discussing the possibility of buying some or all options to an emergency 911 telephone system which is scheduled for installation in late 1981.

The commissioners were told in a workshop that the 911 telephone number for emergency calls would be installed and maintained by the county, along with three 911 lines, as of December 1981.

What was referred to as the Expanded 911 system, according to Frank Menoni, of Southern Bell Telephone Co., will be installed at the Police Department, will only receive emergency calls from within the city, an advantage over the original version of the 911 system.

The basic system, which will be paid for by the county, will include the three lines, an alternate routing system to reach other emergency numbers such as the Fire Department or the ambulance service, and several other features.

Menoni said what he needed from the commissioners was a decision on whether they want to spend up to $20,000 for installation and $1,116 monthly bills for up to four options, which would include a display of the telephone number from which the call was made, one-button transfer, a read-out display of the address and name of the calling party and a printout of all 911 calls.

The read-out displays, he said,

could prevent a tragedy if, for instance, someone was only able to dial the number without being able to say anything.

He gave, as an example, an incident which was reported on national television two weeks ago in which a woman called the police station when a man broke into her home to kill her and her children. He noted the woman didn't have a chance to tell the police dispatcher her name or address and the dispatcher could only listen helplessly as the murders took place.

Menoni said that if the dispatcher had been equipped with the 911 optional services, he would have had an automatic readout on the woman's address and could immediately have dispatched help.

Commissioners Tom Altman and Dorothy Walker agreed they were in favor of getting the options, after Police Inspector Michael Miller recommended their purchase, if the city can work out the details and finances.

Before the Monday meeting, City Attorney John Baker is supposed to go through Southern Bell's contract and make a report on that.

In other action, the commission: —Decided to hold a special workshop on April 15 to discuss a bond issue on water and sewer improvements.

—Scrapped, at least for the moment, consideration of writing an ordinance for the control of flea markets.

—Agreed, after a presentation by Commissioner Dorothy Walker, to endorse in a resolution Governor Bob Graham's legislative program on energy, that Mayor Ralph Kirk should proclaim May 3 as Sun Day in Belle Glade, and encourage the use of solar energy by Belle Glade residents where and when possible and that Miss Walker and City Manager Robert R. Sanders work together to see what the city could do to encourage energy conservation here, by example or ordinance.

—Discussed but made no decision on alternative plans as to whether the city should build an elevated one million gallon water tank on

system expansion, "a one million gallon ground storage tank there or a one million gallon ground storage tank at the water treatment plant.

—Directed City Manager Sanders to follow up on a suggested application concerning wasteland allocations which Briley, Wild and Associates engineers suggested could eliminate the need either effluent spreading or deep well injection as a means of disposing of effluent from the city's sewage treatment plant. Briley, Wild said the chances for getting the new plan approved would be slim but might be worth following up.

Pahokee voters to determine fate of palms

PAHOKEE—City voters will not be asked to determine the fate of the Royal Palm trees along Bacom Point Road.

City councilmen decided last night to rescind their earlier motion which would have placed the question of removing the trees on the May 6 city election ballot, after a delegation of Pahokee garden club members led by Mrs. Jess Elliott voiced their opposition.

Appearing before council, Mrs. Elliott charged that the auto accidents along the two-lane stretch leading into the city are due to "human errors not the trees."

"I hate to think of destroying the prettiest things in Pahokee," Mrs. Elliott said.

Council's earlier motion would have sought voters' opinion on whether the State Department of Transportation should be petitioned to remove the palm trees.

The rescinding motion was made by Commissioner Noma Norman who argued that there are as many telephone poles as trees along the road. "Are we going to remove the poles, too? We can't remove all the obstacles," Norman said.

Councilman George Rashley said he also was against taking the trees down but "the city wanted an opinion," he said.

Continuing her protest Mrs.

Elliott countered, "You would be duty bound to go with the vote."

Council's vote was unanimous to rescind the motion that would have placed the issue on the ballot, Commissioner W.E. McKinstry being absent.

The issue of the trees being a hazard to motorists surfaced again last month after Lori Michelle Bonnell, 17, was killed when the pickup truck in which she was a passenger crashed into one of the trees.

The request for council to take action on removing the trees came from Mrs. Bonnie Olden who cited the trees and the falling fronds as a danger to motorists.

Another revision in the ballot for the May 6 election was also approved by councilmen Tuesday night who voted not to list unopposed candidates on the ballot, following state and county precedents.

The proposal was made by City Clerk Betty McCoy who said that by not listing unopposed candidates the size of the ballot could be reduced from two pages to one page. This would be "cheaper and less confusing," she pointed out.

The rationale, she explained, is that a candidate will vote for himself.

The motion was approved thus removing the names of Mrs. McCoy, Police Chief Carmen Salvatore III, Councilman Rashley - all incumbents - from the ballot as well as that of Hugo Raineri, the only candidate qualified in the in line with what the county pay Election workers will include: Ami Levins, Eva Gillis, Lucy Balnes, Allie Mae Watson, Louise Hodges, Mary Hammond and Tommie Lee Dubose as clerk.

Bus fares to increase

County bus system fares will be increased slightly, effective May 4, pending the outcome of a public hearing at 10 a.m. April 15 during the County Commission meeting at the downtown West Palm Beach courthouse.

The County Commission serves as the Palm Beach County Transportation Authority which operates the bus system through Florida Transit Management, Inc., under contract.

While rates would go up, the existing charges of 15 cents for various zones and 10 cents for transfers would be eliminated.

Basic adult fares would increase from 40 cents to 50 cents, reduced fares for the elderly (over 60) and the handicapped would rise from 15 cents to 25 cents and the 3 to 11 age group, when accompanied by an adult, would be boosted from 15 cents to 25 cents.

In addition, effective June 1, the monthly commuter pass charge would go from $15 to $18. A new monthly pass would be initiated for the eligible senior citizens and handicapped at a charge of $8 monthly.

A West Palm Beach-Palm Beach shuttle service would be inaugurated at 15 cent fare.

Students' rates would remain 25

Bill Bailey to run

BELLE GLADE-District Five Palm Beach County Commissioner Billy Bailey announced Monday his candidacy for re-election.

Bailey, a 48-year-old Republican, was elected to the Commission in 1976, succeeding Democrat E.W. "Bud" Weaver, who retired after 12 years service.

A native of Pahokee, Bailey, moved to Belle Glade in 1941. He was graduated from Belle Glade High School in 1950 and attended the University of Florida until 1953, when he served with the Army in Korea.

He has been active in Glades politics since 1963, when he was elected to the Belle Glade City Commission. He served 12 years, including three years as mayor in 1965, 1966 and 1970.

In 1968, Bailey ran for the District Five seat, losing to Weaver by fewer than 600 votes. He was a member of Belle Glade's Civil Service Board from 1959 to 1962 and is a former director of the Belle Glade Chamber of Commerce.

Bailey has been actively engaged in the real estate business in the western section of Palm Beach County since 1963, specializing in farmland and acreage.

He served as president of the Palm Beach County Municipal League in 1971 and '72 and was a member of the Area Planning Board in 1974 and '75.

In 1970, he was a regional technician for the federal census in Palm Beach and Broward Counties.

Civic activities include president of the Belle Glade Jaycees in 1960 and membership in the Rotary Club and the Belle Glade Elks Lodge #1715.

He is a member of the Glades Republican Club, the Forum Club and the Community United Methodist Church. He is married to the former Sue Armstrong.

He has three children: Lisa, recently married to Jose Antuna; Stuart, who is attending the University of Central Florida in Orlando; and Traci, a sophomore at Glades Day School.

Homestead exemption applications sought

Palm Beach County Property Appraiser Dave Reid is attempting to get a head start on applications by owners for the $25,000 homestead exemption authorized on school taxes by voters in the state's March 11 presidential primary.

Reid said his office is trying to facilitate the granting of the increased homestead exemption to those people who are eligible for it, with part of the effort coming in the form of letters mailed to county taxpayers.

Reid points out in the letter that one of the conditions for the increased exemption is to have lived in Florida for the past five years, without breaking residency during Jan. 1.

Reid cautions, however, that there is a $600 fine or six months imprisonment or both that can be imposed for falsely filing the affidavit swearing to the residency.

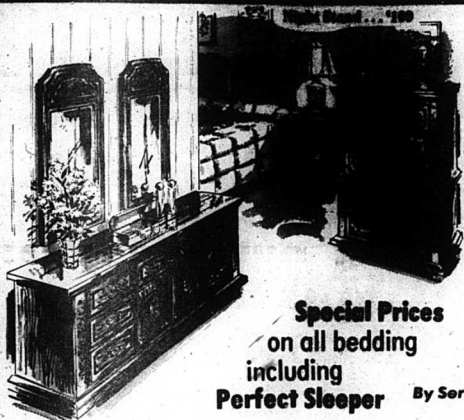

Reid said his office can locate, through a computer, those people who have qualified because of the fact they have obtained a senior exemption, which also required that they be a five-year resident of the state.

"In some cases," he went on, "we also were able to identify people who have had homestead exemption on a property for five years or more and automatically were able to grant them the exemption."

"In those cases where we could not determine if a person had been a legal resident of the state for five continuous years," he said, "we have had to send them a letter."

He said the letter mailings began April 4 and would be sent approximately 65,000 residents of the county. He noted that some people might qualify as a five-year resident of the state although they hadn't claimed homestead exemption throughout the five years.

"When the appraisal notice cards are mailed out to everyone in June," Reid said, "we will include the $25,000 exemption from school taxes on the card. If, for some reason, it is not included and the recipient qualifies, he should contact us at that time for further clarification of the matter."

Out of their assortment of more than 100 varieties of roses, Evelyn and Mills Byrom are selecting those they will exhibit at the Palm Beach Rose Society Show this weekend in West Palm Beach.

Where the Roses bloom!

It takes a lot more than promises to make a rose garden. It takes hours of work and patience that only a love for roses could inspire. Such a love have Evelyn and Mills Byrom whose garden of roses nearly fills their NW Avenue H backyard, shedding its beauty and fragrance on the neighborhood. Among the more than 500 rose bushes -- and rose trees -- in the Byroms' yard are some 100 varieties including numerous hybrids they have developed.

For in addition to the hours spent spraying, fertilizing and trimming, the Byroms also enjoy creating new varieties by grafting one rose to another.

Learning to grow roses in the Glades is not simple. Arriving in Belle Glade from Texas in 1949, the Byroms did not even attempt it for the first five years. Friends told them it couldn't be done; nematodes would devour the roots.

But as an agricultural engineer, Mills Byrom knew it could be done if he found the right method. The method, he found, was to use the Fortuniana rose for the rootstock, grafting other varieties to it.

How to go about...

Grafting!

Creating new and original varieties of roses is an added pleasure to growing them. The Byroms use Fortuniana roses for root stock in grafting because the roots are more resistant to nematodes.

Before starting to graft you will need to assemble the following: caliper, a clean, sharp knife, Scotch tape, marking pen, and spring-closing clothespins.

Instructions for creating a "greenhouse" from a bread wrapper are shown in Step 4. Step 1: The scion (stem of rose to be grafted on) should have three leaves and two or more inches of stem section at the bottom. The diameter of the scion and the main stem of the root stock must be the same. Use the caliper to measure.

Step 2: Cut a V into the top of the root stock about one inch deep. Cut a wedge on the scion to fit. Insert the wedge into the V making sure the cambium (the light green inner layer) of the two stems meet, at least on one side of the cut.

Step 3: Cut a two-inch length of Scotch tape and form a cuff around the joint, pinching it tight. Write the date and name of the rose grafted on a piece of masking tape. Mount the tape on clothespin and attach clothespin to graft area with the stem passing through the hole of the clothespin.

Step 4: Place the pot containing the grafted root stock inside "greenhouse," sprinkle with water, and close top.

You can create individual greenhouses from plastic bread wrappers off king-size loaves using Mills Byrom's method. First make certain the pot you use will fit inside the bread wrapper. Byrom makes pots to hold root stock from tarpaper stapled into cylinders, which slide easily into the wrapper.

Step 1

Mills Byrom demonstrates how the wedge-cut end of the scion fits into the V-notch of the root stock.

Step 2

A piece of Scotch tape will hold the graft in place while the two sections grows together. As the two sections meld they will burst the Scotch tape.

Step 3

The graft completed, Byrom places the tarpaper pot containing the grafted rootstock into a bread wrapper, sprinkles it liberally with water and ties the top of the wrapper to close it.

The ad read, "Big Steak giveaway! Call for an appointment. FREE! 30 steaks just for making an appointment and opening a 120 day account. Full beefside 93 cents a pound."

We decided to call some friends and see if they were willing to go in halves with us. Sure, we were told, set up the necessary appointment.

Appointments were made, credit references were given and we were all set. Thursday night at 7 p.m. we were told.

Better plan to start out early, I told Mary. We don't know where the place is and we sure don't want to be late.

The night before we went through our big freezer and discarded the unwanted items, separated the vegetables from the meat, and made sure we left plenty of room for all the beef we were going to put in the freezer.

Thursday night came and we loaded everybody up early and headed for West Palm Beach. I don't know left from right in West Palm. I get lost if we take any road other than Military Trail.

FROM THE GRAPEVINE

By BRENDA BUNTING

Bob takes special delight in weaving around the streets in West Palm on our way to somewhere and glancing at me with a grin to say, "Bet you don't know where we are." The answer is always the same, "I have no idea."

So I took secret delight in the fact that on that Thursday night, he got completely lost and was unable to find the business we were looking for.

"Don't be so hard-headed," I told him, "stop at a gas station and ask. We are going to be late for our appointment."

"Now I have it," he said after leaving the gas station. "We were going the wrong way."

"Good, let's get going, we're late now."

Another gas station later, we finally got going in the right direction and arrived at our destination. We were a half-hour late, but better late than not at all.

We were greeted by a receptionist who had her feet propped on her desk while holding a conversation on the phone to someone who was obviously a friend and not a client.

She instructed us to just go on back. We entered the cutting room and were greeted by a heavy-set man wearing a blood-stained apron.

Roses—

Because the Fortunata puts out so many roots it is able to survive in spite of nematodes.

By 1965 the Byroms had a flourishing rose garden with more than 300 plantings when they were temporarily assigned to Puerto Rico by the U.S. Department of Agriculture. The expected to return home in six months. Instead, it was four years later when they came back to the Glades area. Back to 16 rose bushes. All that was left of their garden.

Wandering among the Byroms' roses it's hard to believe there could be yet another color or another kind of rose but myriad young plants attest to the fact that Mills Byrom is constantly striving for one of another color, if not a rose by another name.

To grow a new variety is one thing, however. To have it officially named is another.

The crucial test of a new variety is to submit four bushes to the national association of rose growers to be nurtured for two years in the association's garden in Shreveport.

Success is measured by a point system but the ultimate in success is to have a rose selected by a large commercial nursery to be included in its stock.

In 1975, a rose hybridized by Byrom averaged 70.9 points, to compare with 80.1, the highest score ever given.

But because the rose was not commercially adopted, it goes nameless. "At that time it cost $2,000 to patent a rose by name,"

Mrs. Byrom explains. This year Byrom has produced another variety he plans to submit to the national garden test.

The Palm Beach Rose Society's annual show, to be held April 12 and 13 in West Palm Beach, is one of the largest in the state and a highlight of the year for the Byroms.

Both Mills and Evelyn Byrom are rose judges and Mills had charge of inviting this year's panel of judges to the Palm Beach Show.

Meanwhile it's a week of suspenseful waiting for the Byroms as they watch their year's work come to bloom to coincide with the weekend of the Palm Beach rose show.

Grapevine

We entered his office to discuss our order and weight ranges. He got up and closed the door.

Mary said later on that for her, that was the tip off. Why close the door when there were no distracting noises, and we were only discussing the cuts of beef we preferred?

We were quickly given the bait and switch tactics that occasionally are used by dishonest businessmen. "You don't want that," we were told. "You stand to lose 50 percent that way."

"But we want the 93 cents per pound deal advertised in the paper," I said.

"Well, you folks can do what you want, but let me show you how you can save by doing this."

We moved from 93 cents per pound to $2.99 per pound in a few sentences. I was completely baffled and Mary was stammering.

She told the man a few things about the truth as she saw it, and we eventually left without a drop of beef.

The price for a half of beef when he got through was $693. What a ripoff! Now I am in the process of filling out a consumer complaint form.

The last thing Mary's husband said before she left to go to the beef place was, "Watch out for a shyster."

Thanks for the warning, Jaimie.

Boy, I was sure looking forward to biting into a big juicy steak.

Ron Snyder, his mother and Mrs. Snyder show just a sampling of what's in store for you.

Originality abounds at The Reservation gift shop

The Reservation is a unique little shop with a distinctive collection of gifts and "different" items for the home. The family-owned and operated shop is located on South Main Street just inside the front entrance of Rodriguez Service Center. The shop owner, Ron Snyder and his wife have filled the shop with beautiful and very appealing handworks and jewelry.

The silver and turquoise pieces are the most striking of all. They are handmade by the Southwestern U.S. American Indians. Once inside the shop you cannot leave without seeing these gorgeous pieces up close.

The Snyder's fascination with Indian jewelry and crafts began years ago on a trip to Tucson, Arizona to visit their son. They bought a few pieces and developed enough interest from these pieces to purchase more. Thus, the interest grew from a hobby into a business. The Reservation opened its doors four years ago in March.

The Reservation has such a wide array of gifts it really takes a while to see everything. Some of the most appealing baby items can be found here, such as baby booties, rattles in the shapes of turtles; also afghans and rompers, all hand-fashioned and crocheted or knitted.

Besides the original line of Indian jewelry, The Reservation also offers gold jewelry, figurines, lead crystal and a surprising collection of clocks. Mrs. Snyder makes an unusual and imaginative gift item that is a combination greeting card and book. These you have to see!

Ron's mother, Mrs. Pat Snyder works in the shop and contributes to the charming array of gifts with her own fine hand-embroidered aprons and pillow cases.

The Reservation also handles jewelry repair and engraving. Stop by and see for yourself a one-of-a-kind collection of Indian culture portrayed in the gifts at The Reservation, 364 South Main Street, Belle Glade. Phone 996-2022.

THE WALK TO CALVARY was symbolized Good Friday morning when this group walked from the municipal civic center to Community United Methodist Church where noon services were held. Frank Crum, assistant pastor of Community church, led the walk with walkers taking turns at carrying the 80-pound cross.

Sonshine group to sing at Praisfest '80

BELLE GLADE—Fifteen members of the Sonshine Group of the First Baptist Church will take part in Praisfest '80 this weekend on the campus of Stetson University in DeLand.

The local choir will be one of 36 to take turns singing for one another and for a team of adjudicators who will evaluate their singing and suggest possible improvements.

The PraisFest will begin at 6:30 p.m. Friday with a "Parade of Choirs." The all-day Saturday program will include a massed choir of 3,000 voices rehearsing under the direction of Jim Gibson, youth music specialist from Nashville, Tenn.

Grady Nutt, a regular performer on the television program, "Hee Haw," will present his special Christian humor and serve as master of ceremonies. Also on the program is Ken Medema, nationally-known Christian artist who is a blind singer, pianist, and composer.

At 2:15 p.m. all participants will begin an hour of praise and celebration. Winners from among 24 voice, piano and organ solos will be announced at 2 p.m.

This is the fourth year of the PraisFest, sponsored by the Florida Baptist Convention under the guidance of Paul Bobbitt, director of the convention's church music department. Susie Foreman is the accompanist for the Sonshine Group.

He has served churches in Cleveland, Ohio, Lexington, Ky., Miami, West Palm Beach, and Orlando, and has been active in proclaiming the word in radio and television.

Revival at Methodist Church

BELLE GLADE—A four-day revival will begin Sunday at Community United Methodist Church, with the Rev. Clarence Yates of Orlando preaching and the Rev. Paul Bauer of Moore Haven leading the singing.

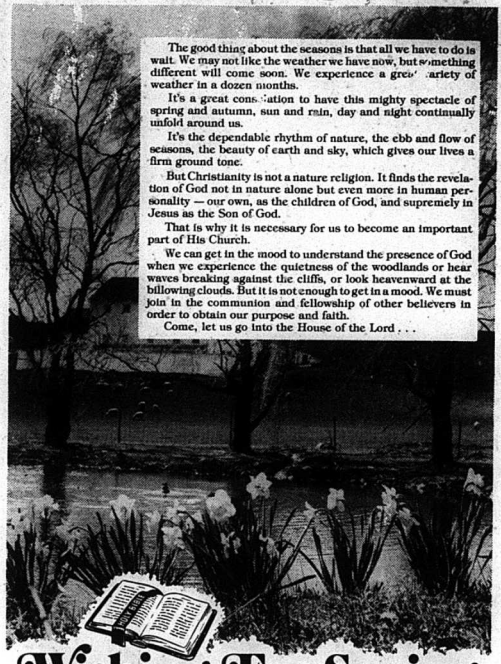

The first service will be held at 11:00 a.m. Sunday with services each evening, Sunday thru Wednesday, at 7:30 p.m. A nursery will be provided.

Rev. Yates, who has been in this area before, is pastor of Pine Castle

United Methodist Church in Orlando, a 2200 member church, which is the fastest growing Methodist Church in the Orlando area.

Born in Kentucky, the son of a Methodist preacher, he became a licensed preacher in the Methodist Church at the age of 12. He attended college and seminary at Asbury, Ky. and did graduate work at the University of Pittsburgh.

Taking it From the Top

By REV. DAVID T. EVANS
Everglades Presbyterian Church

Life is full of challenges and defeats. Challenges may seem many times to be burdens and almost self-defeating.

Meeting challenges includes keeping your eyes on the goal, a strong motivation and undying hope.

In keeping your eyes on the goal you can analyze it so that you are sure it is what you want to achieve. Many goals fade under close scrutiny and are best abandoned.

You as a Christian must make your first goal the call of Christ. This includes walking worthy of being known as a follower of Jesus. If you believe, then you ought to act in a manner like unto Christ;

Sometimes the goal is obscured by short term advantages or short cuts. Often it is necessary to re-evaluate ultimate aims, but much of the time the alternatives are really not worth while, particularly in the light of the final objective.

Another deterrent to keeping your eyes on the goal is self-pity. When the going gets rough it is very easy to feel that the load is too heavy or the way too long.

This is the point where the goal and motivation go together. Christ must be the underlying motive of your activities and your life's goal.

The Apostle Paul writes to the Philippians: "Have this mind among yourselves, which you have in Christ Jesus..."

It is only as Christ dominates your life that you will be able to meet the challenge of today's pressure and problem-filled experiences. When the goals of success and wealth are gained, you must be firmly anchored in Christ.

The Christian life is not running a 100 yard dash but a marathon which calls for endurance and careful pacing of effort. It is only through proper training and discipline that you can run the full course of life.

Paul, who well knew the value of running the full course, wrote to the Romans, "...and endurance produces character, and character produces hope, and hope does not disappoint us, because God's love has been poured into our hearts through the Holy Spirit which has been given to us."

The motivation of Christ now becomes the source of hope which every Christian must have. Christ's love fills you and will overwhelm you until you can say what the Apostle Paul said to the Galatians, "I have been crucified with Christ, it is no longer I who live, but Christ who lives in me; and the life I now live in the flesh I live by faith in the Son of God, who loved me and gave Himself for me."

Meet life's challenge in, with, and through Christ, and problems will be only stepping stones to fullness and joy, and above all hope.
